May Parker finally gathers enough courage to show Normie Osborn how she really feels about him--

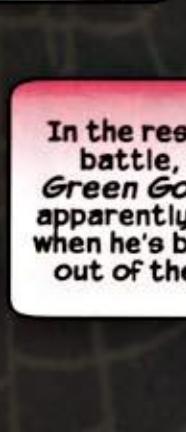

--But he rejects her because of their age difference.

After a sleepless night, she is about to pick up some medicine for her pregnant mother--

--When she receives a call from the Green Goblin who has tracked down the Soldiers Of The Serpent, a militant hate group.

In the resulting battle, the Green Goblin is apparently killed when he's blasted out of the sky.

Spider-Girl herself is welded to an anchor and hurled into the Hudson River.

THREE MINUTES!

That's about all the time you have left.

You need to free yourself before you drown--

--and get out of the water before you freeze to death.

Yeah.

Piece o'cake.

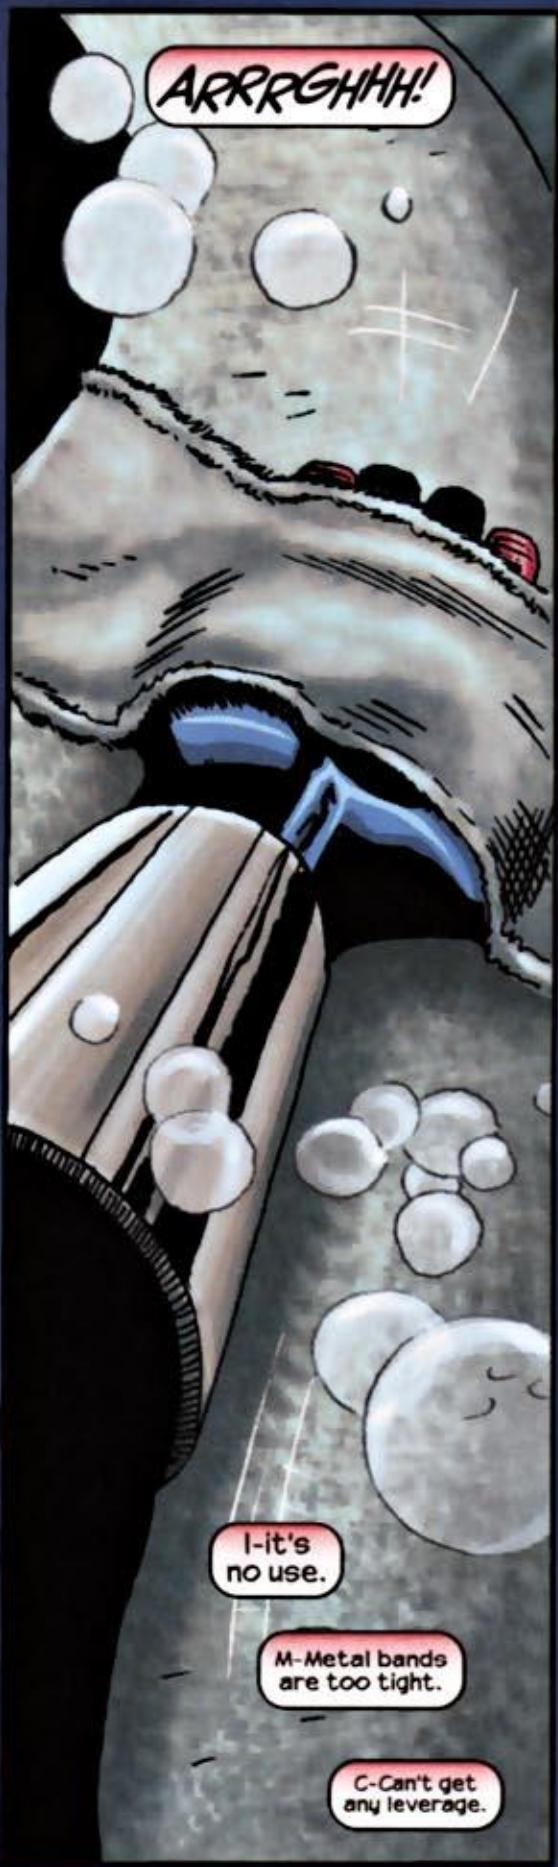

Too bad you're already low on air and can feel yourself slipping into shock.

Shake it off, girl!

Fight it!

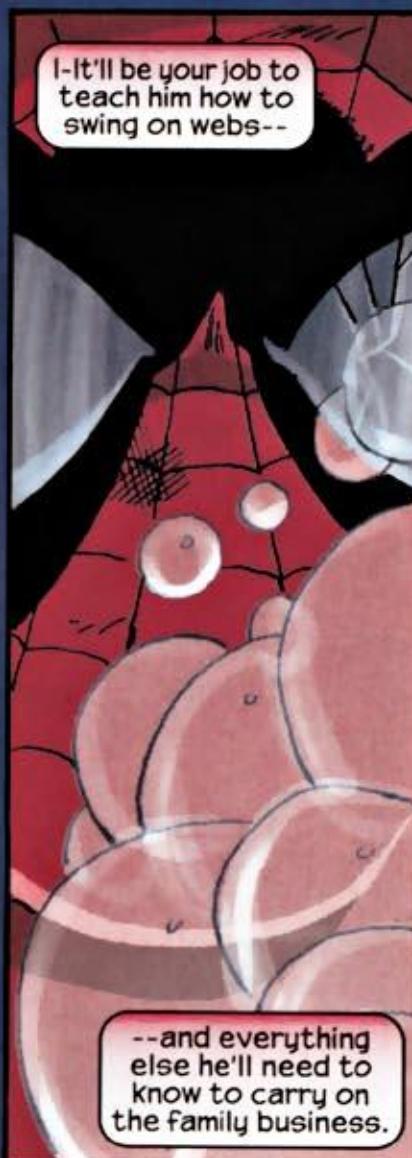

Your name is May "Mayday" Parker.

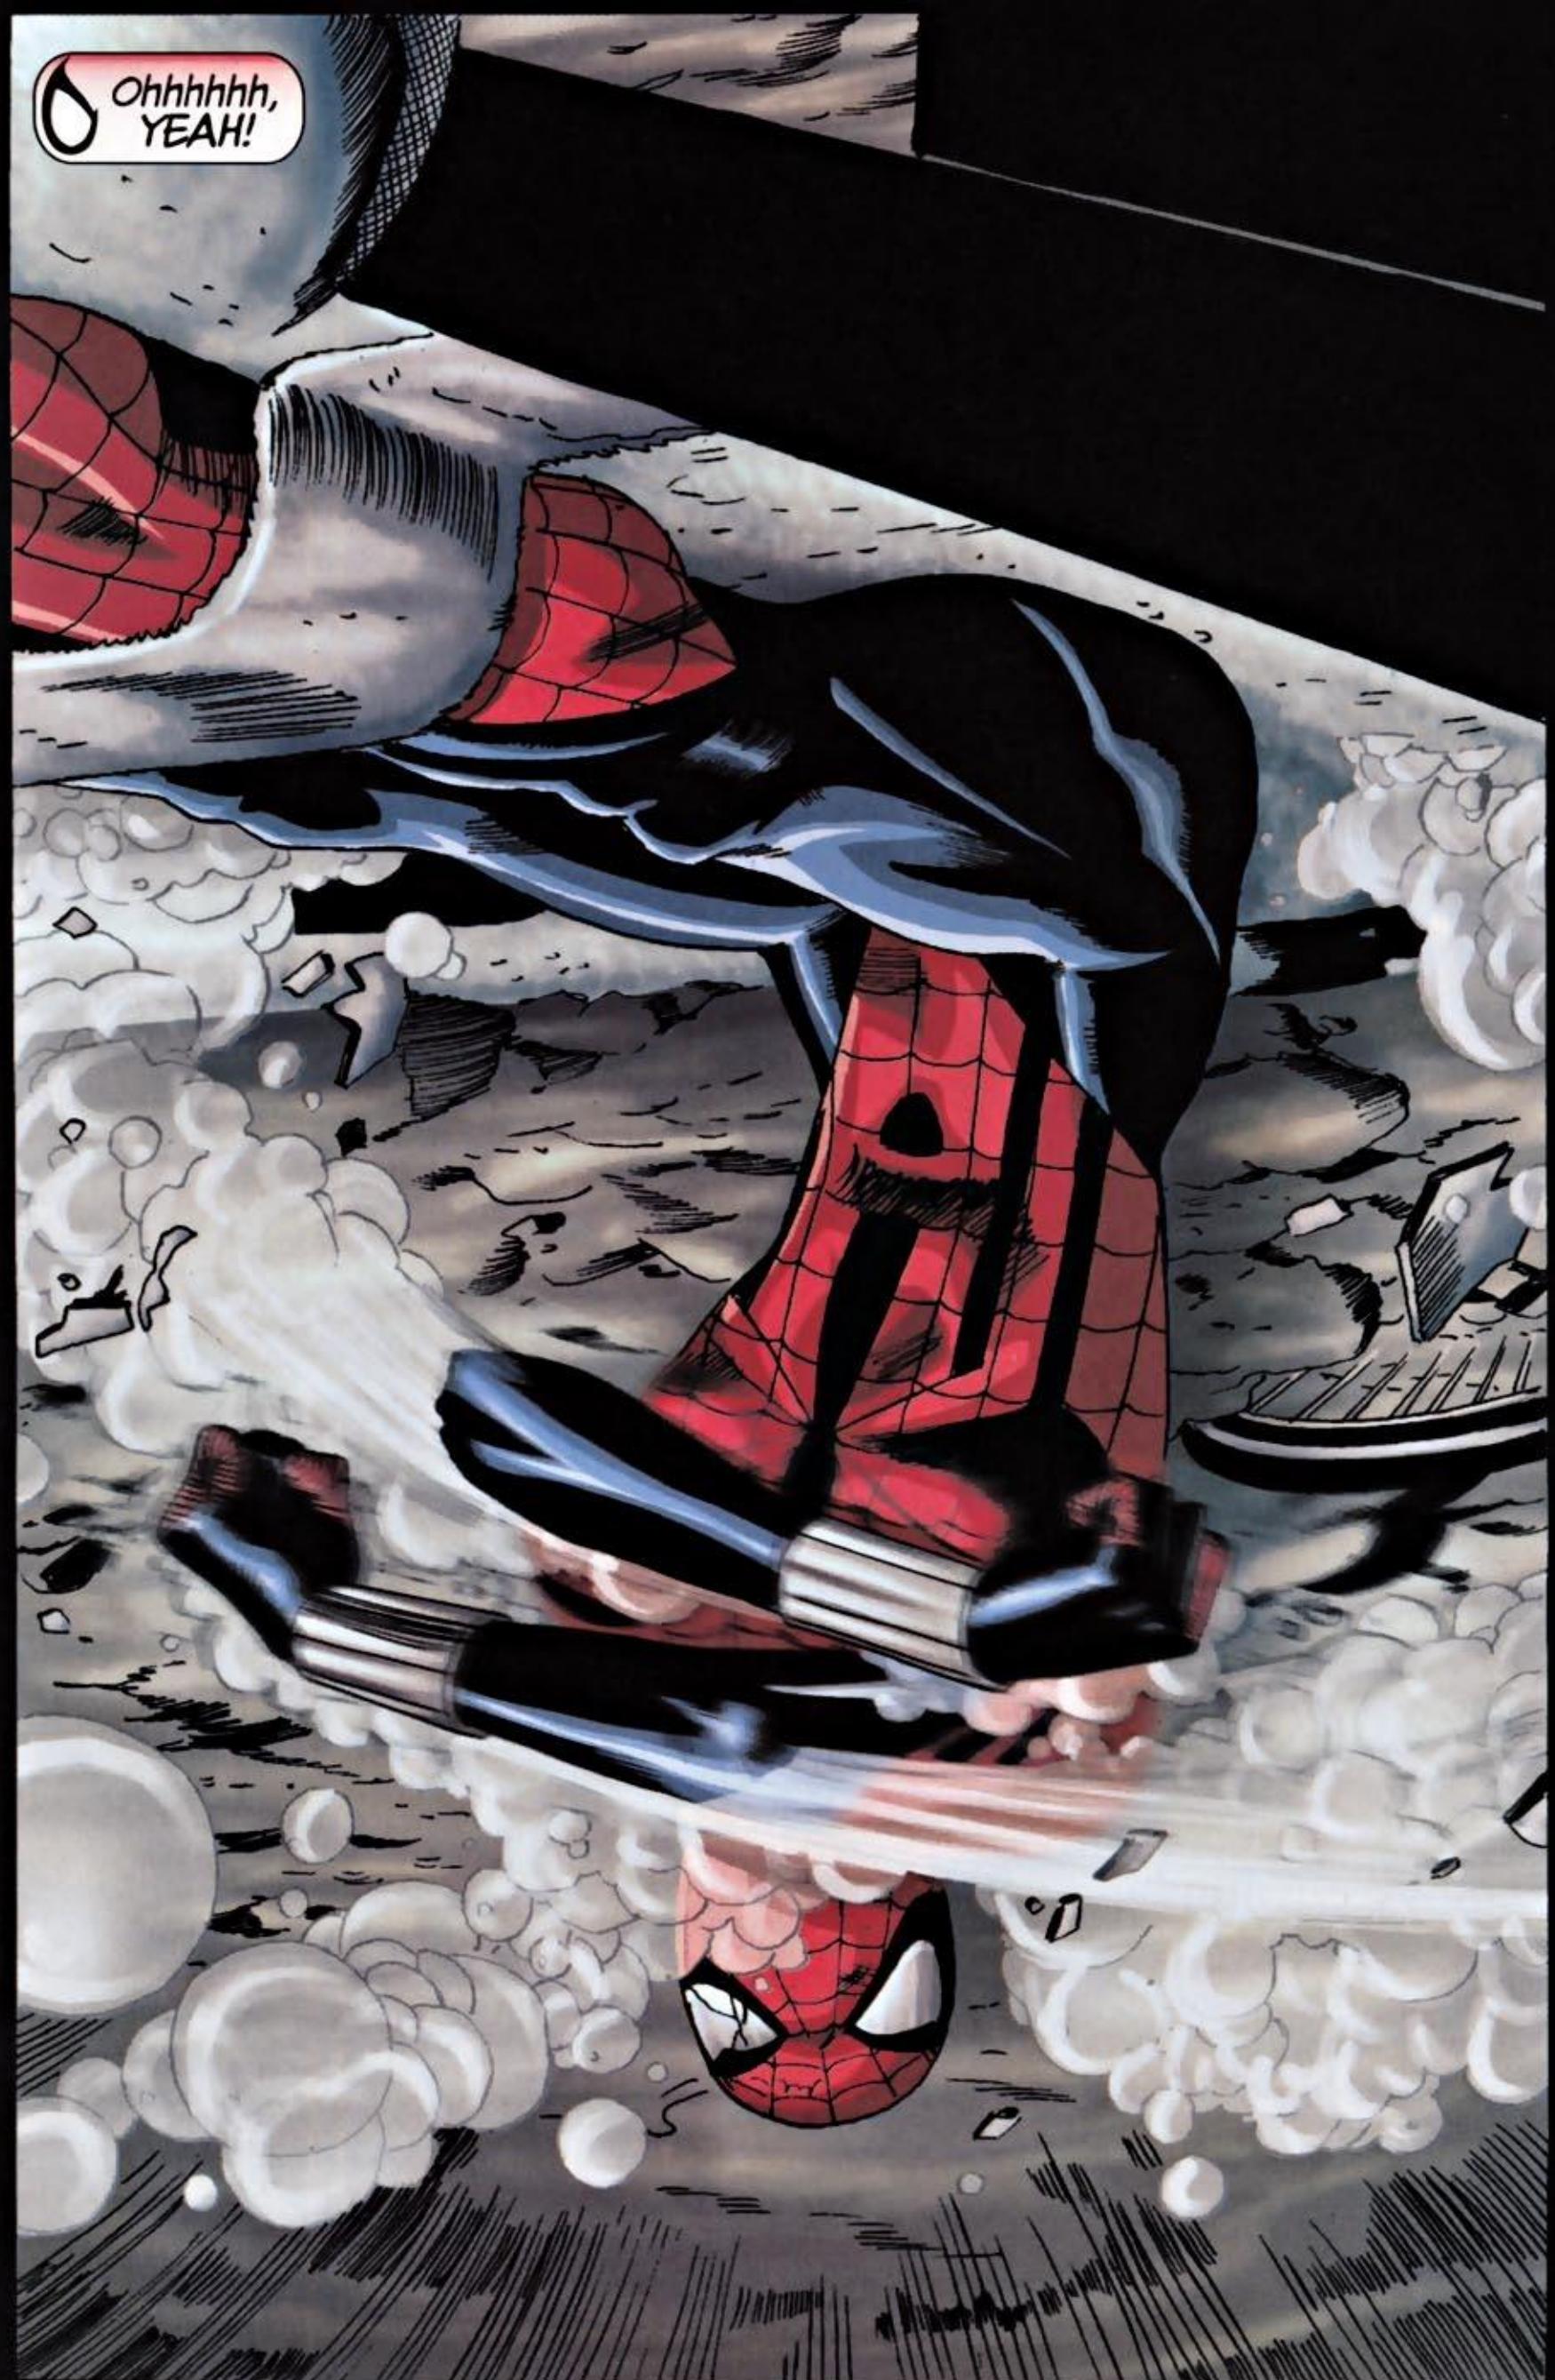

You are the daughter of the one, true Spider-Man and he'll absolutely freak if you don't come home tonight.

Y-You would pull a stunt like this in the middle of winter.

Thank God your web-shooters are functioning--

--b-but hypothermia is still a real possibility.

Y-You need to find someplace warm--

--Where you can raise your body temperature.

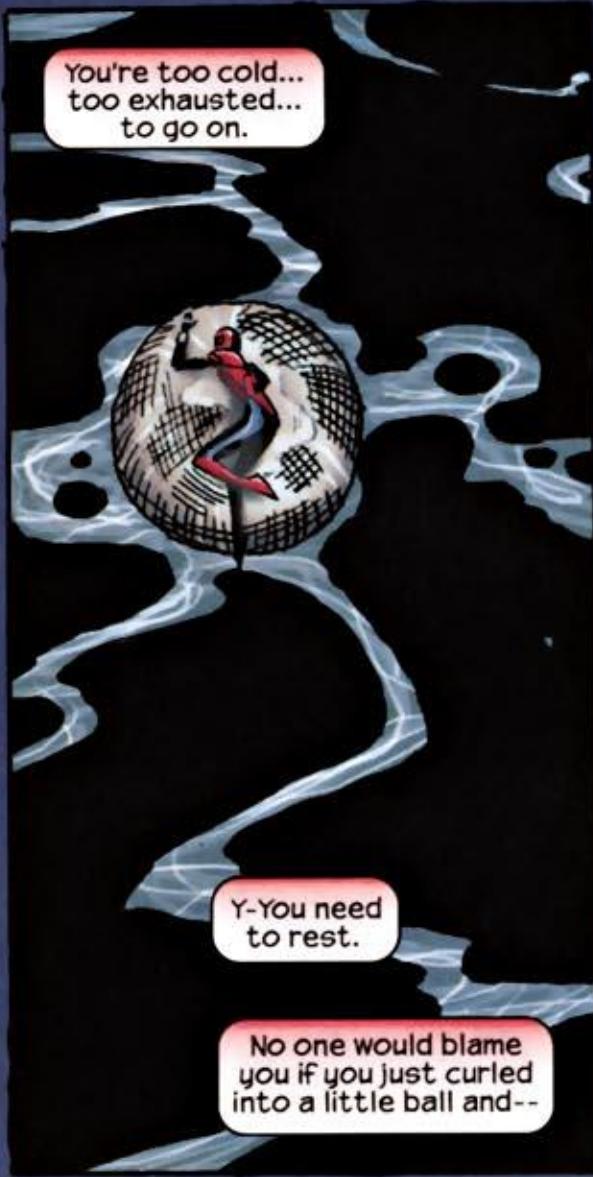

You're too cold... too exhausted... to go on.

Y-You need to rest.

No one would blame you if you just curled into a little ball and--

NO!

Not yet.

The situation's critical, Normie. There's no time for debate.

I need you to round up the New Warriors--

--and call the police.

What about Spider-Girl?

Have you seen her?

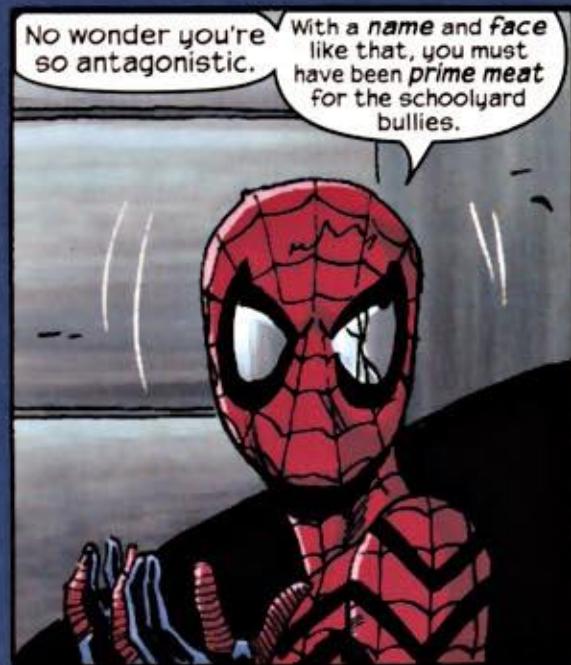

Is she all right?

I... I don't know... but her survival odds can only increase... if you do what I've asked.

--and we're repelling boarders!"

That is only what you choose to believe.

The reality, however, is quite different.

I could shatter every bone in your body with a single blow--

--and rip the heart from your chest before it could even stop beating.
