SAMSON IN SKIRTS

IN the 1870's, it was not considered proper for women to meddle in matters outside her home. To take an interest in medicine, politics, or other fields reserved for men, meant social disgrace for a woman. But Louisa Schuyler, a great-granddaughter of Alexander Hamilton, was a woman without fear. Like Samson of the Bible, she did not flinch from a fight with the giants of her time.

Louisa Schuyler's battle against injustice started when she was invited to inspect Bellevue Hospital. The hospital authorities expected to hear from her great praise for their renowned medical and surgical services.

But Louisa shocked them by announcing publicly that she found conditions "unspeakable." She revealed that the nurses and orderlies were absolutely ignorant, knowing nothing whatever about medicine or cleanliness.

She found that there was not a single night nurse for the more than 800 patients. And the daytime nurses, being untrained, were of little help or comfort to a sick person.

"What we need," she said, "is a school for nurses!"

Louisa's suggestion struck like a bombshell. And the most violent opposition came from the doctors themselves. They thundered threats against her meddling, and assailed her as an "ignorant woman interfering with what was none of her business."

But Louisa persisted. She formed a committee of women to fight for the establishment of a nurses' school, and eventually won the support of a number of leading doctors.

Then, after a year and a half of conflict, the doors of the first nurses' training school in the United States were opened at Bellevue.

As the idea caught on, more and more schools were started throughout the nation, and Louisa Schuyler could now afford to rest on her laurels.

But, there was no resting for this tireless worker, for there were still other giants to conquer.

She was 24 when the Civil War broke out. Louisa Schuyler soon became aware of the lack of an organization to bring relief to the soldiers and their families, such as the Red Cross performs today. Out of her efforts came the establishment of a woman's relief committee that soon became a national organization known as the United States Sanitary Commission.

Louisa Schuyler was now in poor health, and she planned to take a long trip. But before she could do so, she met her third giant.

An accidental visit to a poorhouse resulted in her cancelling her trip. How could she go away after seeing how disgracefully inmates were treated in our early poorhouses!

Here, the poor and the insane were lumped together. When an insane person became violent, he was simply chained to the wall. In those days, the insane were placed in the care of private persons. Louisa recognized that conditions would never change until the State took care of these unfortunates.

But when she dared to suggest this, she found herself with the biggest battle on her hands. Both politicians and the operators of the poorhouses joined forces to defeat her. But she fought only harder.

It was a losing battle for the giants—and they knew it! In four years, Louisa succeeded in forcing through the Legislature her bills requiring the State to take over the job of caring for the insane.

From that time to the end of her life, Louisa Schuyler continued fighting for the people. Among her later achievements were a State-wide crusade for prevention of tuberculosis, the foundation of a colony for epileptics, and the founding of an organization that is still world-renowned: The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Hey SKINNY!

...YER RIBS
ARE SHOWING!

I Can Make YOU a New Man, Too, In Only 15 Minutes a Day!

CHARLES
Holder of title.
"The World's
Most Perfectly
Developed
Man."

PEOPLE used to laugh at my skinny 97-pound body. I was ashamed to strip for sports or for a swim. Girls made fun of me behind my back. THEN I discovered my body-building system, "Dynamic Tension." It made me such a complete specimen of manhood that I hold the title, "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man."

What's My Secret?

When you look in the mirror and see a healthy, husky, fellow smiling back at you — then you'll be astonished at how fast "Dynamic Tension" GETS RESULTS! It is the easy, NATURAL method and you can practice in the privacy of your own room — JUST 15 MINUTES EACH DAY. Just watch your scrawny chest and shoulder muscles begin to swell . . . those spindly arms and legs of yours bulge . . . and your whole body starts to feel "alive," full of zip and go!

Thousands are becoming husky — my way. I give you no gadgets to fool with. With "Dynamic Tension" you simply utilize the dormant muscle-power in your own body — watch it grow and multiply into real, solid LIVE MUSCLE.
